had been chosen / was chosen

It was sunny but slightly damp with Mount Snowdon blue-grey in the background and the reclaimed flatland in front speckled all over with the white shapes of 4 grazing sheep.

4.satoja/hundratals

hundreds of

Seabirds swooped here and there, and a few cattle 5 up to their bellies in a tide-pool, 6 the whole scene an antique aura, 7 it were a Turner painting.

5.be

were

6.give

giving / which gave

7.ikään kuin / som om

as if / as though / in the same way as if I knew just what it was. It was a steam train of the narrow-gauge Highland Railway, Rheilffordd Eryri, inactive since 1837 but now once again running the 25-odd miles through the mountains, round the flank of Snowdon, between Porthmadog and Caernarfon. While I knew the line 8 already, 9 the train that day in full steam again was wonderful.
