

E. All shook up

Part 1

In the following dialogue the patient's lines have got mixed up. Arrange them into the correct order. Then read the dialogue aloud with your partner.

Doctor

1. Good morning, sir/madam.
What can I do for you this time?
3. No, it's probably just a touch of flu.
There seems to be a bug going around.
Just drink plenty of fluids and get some bed rest.

5. Not according to my examination of you.
If you're not feeling better in a few days, I'll put you on antibiotics. For now, take some cough medicine. Was there anything else?
7. No, it doesn't look like it. It is probably an allergic reaction to something you ate.
Monitor your diet closely and see if the symptoms persist. Use this lotion twice a day; it should stop the itching. By the way, I see from your file that you were in hospital last week.

9. Well, the diarrhea was probably just due to food poisoning. How many times have you gone to the bathroom today?

11. It seems to me that you're constipated.
You should think of adding more fibre to your diet.

13. Most certainly not. But the blood work they did last week does show you're anemic.
My secretary will make you an appointment
with a nutritionist.

Patient

2. Well, to begin with, I haven't been feeling all that well. I've got a sore throat and it feels like I've got laryngitis. I'm also running a fever. You don't think it could be pneumonia or influenza, do you?
4. Thank you, doctor. See you next week.
10. Well, I haven't actually.

3. Yes, I was suffering from diarrhea and nausea and I went to the emergency ward because I thought it might have been something serious. Now, I've had this persistent ache in my side ever since I pulled a muscle there. Is it possible that I've got appendicitis or a stomach ulcer?

6. Actually, yes. I've broken out into a rash all over my arms. I've never had measles or chickenpox before.
Do you think it might be eczema?

4. But it hurts when I cough and I'm all congested. Couldn't it be bronchitis?

12. I'll do that. What do you think of my complexion? My friends say I've been looking a bit off colour. Do you think I might have jaundice?
