

What Are Onomatopoeia Words?

Onomatopoeia is a word that imitates its real-life counterpart. For example, “crunch” is the word people typically use when they crunch their food. However, “crunch” is not a word that can be found in a dictionary. Onomatopoeia sounds are words that are made up so that it sounds like something. So, for example, the word “squeal” is the sound a bee makes. Now, “squeal” is not a word that can be found in a dictionary. Onomatopoeia sounds are words that are made up so that it sounds like something. As a result, words that resemble actions are often the best.

List Of Animal Sounds

tweet

growl

bark

bleat

croak

coo

howl

ruff

moo

buzz

purr

oink

cluck

woof

splat

hoot

ribbit

cuckoo

wolf

meow

screech

squawk

roar

hiss

quack

squish

crow

cock a

doodle doo

chirp

neigh

peep

sqweek

bow-wow

sniff

Action Sounds Words

boom

tock

gargle

zap

blah

boop

ring

yap

pow

clap

beep

clang

pop

plop

rattle

flush

bam

slosh

slurp

toot

flop

slam

tick

ping

mumble

slash

blab

splash

boo

rumble

thump

gulp

thud

swoosh

gurgle

achoo

crackle

rap

ding

vroom

dong

Expletives

clang

creak

huh

snap

zoom

ha-ha

scrape

hiccup

um

clink

honk

hoho

blast

hum

ah

click

lurch

ahem

burp

jingle

guffaw

whip

sizzle

blow

patter

Objects

boing

raspy

clogs

zip

belch

gong

zing

ca-ching

clunker

puff

ting

choo-choo

fizzle

bang

crash

grunt

buzz

symbol

drip

swish

tap shoes

flick

twang

popcorn

crunch

clap

flip-flop